ALPENRAUSCH

Commitment to Nature

Trust
the Creator of Beauty

It is every person's desire to have a radiant image. And the appearance of the skin can determine our entire well-being, intrinsic as well as extrinsic. A maintenance program that is ahead of its time is vital, but at the same time it should also make visible changes in a natural and lasting way. Our highly effective product range emerges under this principle. We put our trust in nature because she invented beauty.

Reflection of Consistency

The world is moving so fast, and yet true progress is rare. That is why it is so important to value consistency. At Dr. Spiller, we live daily our conviction to create quality Biocosmetics. Looking back, our past demonstrates and reaffirms that our strategic beliefs have future.

We always strive to:

- Continue to learn from where beauty originates.
- Target the places where the skin needs our support.
- Recognize that true change is nature's duty.

The result: "Alpenrausch", Dr. Spiller's incomparable range of products:

- New developments and milestones after more than fifty years of sophisticated skin care.
- Natural ingredients from the Alps – to give back to the skin what the environment has taken away.

“Only what is noticeably healthy can also be noticeably beautiful.”

If one wants to develop “Biocosmetics”, one has to keep an eye on nature, preferably for a half a century

Certain fashions come and go. Our inspiration remains the same: Nature. Because she knows best what an intact organism requires. Biocosmetics aren't just a trend, but a natural and infinite source of possibilities. Dr. Spiller has been relentless in our discovery of active ingredients and innovative product development for more than 50 years with one clear objective:

To support the skin and all its components with a balanced supply of naturally nourishing and regenerative substances that end with visible results. In addition to regulating the moisture, it is also important to stimulate the skin's essential functions. We believe your reflection should make you feel good – resulting in an alluring aura.

Certainty is established where there is a fine
balance between intuition
and transparency

Confidence is better than any form of control. When manufacturing certified organic products, a reliable guide is indispensable because there can only be genuine certainty with a clear understanding. The new certified product line meets the strict "BDIH" regulations (standards for inspected Biocosmetics). Every product is marked with the official European seal of COSMOS ORGANIC as proof of its certified organic quality. COSMOS-standards is the first European-wide recognized certification association that regulates an international framework for Natural and Certified Organic products. This non-commercial association provides the consumer optimal insight as to the origins and quality of the raw materials that are being used. This gives the consumer assurance and the choice to select an excellent, high-quality product.

What does COSMOS ORGANICS stand for?

Clearly defines through common standards and clearly recognized through a common seal of approval.

Sophisticated requirements are what we stand for, and this is what sets ALPENRAUSCH Biocosmetics to one of the highest standards in Europe. COSMOS ORGANICS fundamentally requires that a minimum of 95% ingredients come from controlled agricultural (mainly plant) elements and are organically cultivated. Method of production, from valuable raw material to the end product, is only permitted when the character of natural substances are respected and are left unaltered. Moreover, the packaging must state the organic (bio) portions of the whole product, a minimum of 20%. This might not sound like a lot, but one must consider the amount of water and minerals that are in a finished product. To complete Dr. Spiller's uncompromising creation, we exclusively use our pure Chiemgauer Alpine Spring Water.
